

THE SHARON CASE.

The decision by the Supreme Court of California in the Sharon case is generally approved by the press of the Coast. It is the greatest case of the kind of which there is any record and a remarkable triumph for a woman who, four years ago, began her legal battles unaided, and after a struggle that would have sent some women to a lunatic asylum, now triumphs over all oppositions, and was the legal wife of the late ex-Senator of California, and also entitled to one half of the community property which is estimated by some to be in the neighborhood of $10,000,000.

She acquired a stout helper when Judge Terry of Stockton took up the cudgels in her behalf and from that time her interests were never in jeopardy from inattention on the part of her attorney.

The public sympathy was always strong in her behalf and in battles of this kind is always glad to see a woman win.

THE PEACEFUL BISMARCK.

Bismarck rises to remark that Germany is anxious to be at peace with all the world, but adds significantly that she has a million of men who are ready to put her on a still further peace footing if necessary. Bismarck, while continuing his peaceful speech, tells the world that Germany can whip any other nation because the Lord is on her side. He feels just as Napoleon did when he said the Lord was on the side of the party with the most artillery. Bismarck would not put such confidence in the Lord if he had not already counted up his artillery.

The APPEAL's advice to the rest of Europe is that it is not healthy to force into a fight the man most anxious for peace; he is apt to be a fighter from the jump.

NO MATCH ANYWHERE.

Sullivan will be obliged to return to America without having made a match with anyone. Smith is anxious to meet him after he meets Mitchell, and another fellow has challenged him to a go after he meets Smith, and now that Mitchell has been thrashed in the streets by a novice, there is no probability that the champion from Boston will find anyone who will stand before him. The clause in his contracts which reads, "the winner to take the entire gross receipts," seems to have had a dampening effect on the ardor of everybody.

—High grade ore is unofficially reported to have been encountered in Con. Cal. & Va. in drifting North from the top of the uprise, 21 feet above the 1600 level. This is doubtless the downward continuation of the high grade ore found in the winze sunk below the 1430 level.
